Three students from the H. Lavity Stoutt Community College have emerged winners of the first ever Business Development Competition organized by Oyster Global Marketing Group.

The contest which encouraged participants to “think outside the box” was a precursor to the premier business event in the territory – BVI Business Outlook Conference 2013.

It zeroed in on innovative ways to stimulate growth in the BVI economy, outside of the main pillars, tourism and financial services. Participants were required to develop a business plan outlining the concept of the business, a feasibility study, target market, cost and revenue projections and options for funding.

Responding to the challenge, Ameena Moses, Dimitri Smith and Kishore Gansaw of HLSCC created the business venture – UTECH Studio. UTECH Studio is a technology company specialising in computer databases, systems and programmes, networking, website design, computer education and online marketing.

The other teams that made presentations at Friday's finale were from Elmore Stoutt High School (ESHS) and St. Georges Secondary Division.
